4 Day School Week

Below please find an email I received from one of my teachers. It does a good job in explaining the time pressures we are facing. To each day we have added 40 minutes for Respond to Intervention, 60 minutes for English Language Instruction and 45 minutes for Jicarilla to. If we go to a longer school day – four days a week - it would give us enough instructional time to address these needs.

Teacher's Email

In working with the schedule, I have plugged in all the pull out times and have found I will have only 2 ½ hours a day to teach core curriculum. Once ELL starts I will only have 1 ½ hours. I am very concerned. This amount of time does not give the time to do math or Open Court according to times needed for each. I do plan on using every minute of no shows (pull outs that don't happen) to do curriculum, even though it will not be the best type of planning. If teaching the core curriculum is not a major priority let me know and I won't worry about it. Thanks.
